PG Department of English conducted Quiz Competition for College Day. The programme was held on for two days (7.2.24 & 9.2.24) with two rounds: Prelims and Finale in G block- III floor. The event was indeed a highlight of the College Day Celebration for it drew attention from the students of various departments. Around 91 teams participated and generated enthusiastic engagement. The event aimed to foster a spirit of healthy competition and intellectual prowess among the young minds.

The rounds encompassed:

1. The Preliminary round had themes related to General Knowledge, accolades, and contemporary events.
2. The Lexical Challenge Round is focused on the spelling of words, as well as the usage of abbreviations and acronyms.
3. Identify the logo round concentrates on the logos of all domains.
4. Connexions round focused on authors and celebrity names in the form of pictures.
5. The Rapid Fire Round engaged the students with interesting questions of various fields.

The participants exhibited exceptional cognitive abilities and a strong sense of competition, which resulting in a stimulating and captivating experience for all the participants. Although the competitions were competitive, teams demonstrated friendship and sportsmanship by praising one other's achievements and calmly accepting loss. The competition ended successfully and the participants gave good feedback on the competitions.

Elysian Fields: Poet's Pen (19.02.2024)

The PG Department of English, under Elysian Fields, convened Poets' Pen for its regular (every semester) meet on [19.02.2024]. The meeting saw active participation from members who shared their creative works, engaged in constructive feedback, and discussed upcoming events and initiatives. Members gathered to read and share their original poetry pieces. The diversity of styles, themes, and emotions reflected the richness of the club's creative milieu. Poems ranged from introspective reflections on personal experiences to socially relevant commentary on contemporary issues.

Following the readings, participants offered thoughtful observations on aspects such as imagery, metaphor, rhythm, and narrative coherence. The head of the department Dr. G. Youveniya delivered a stimulating talk on the power of language and the importance of poetic expression in contemporary society. She also shared her own poems. Suggestions were given to include organize poetry slams, collaborating with other artistic groups for interdisciplinary projects, and hosting workshops on various aspects of poetry writing. The event provided members with a platform to showcase their work, receive valuable feedback, and engage in meaningful discussions about the craft of writing. The event came to an end at 1.00 PM.

Elysian Fields: Debators' Den (20.02.2024)

The PG Department of English organised Debators' Den, a club activity under Elysian Fields on 20.02.2024. The meeting commenced with a series of structured debate sessions on topical issues chosen by the club members. The title was "Can Literature remain relevant in our lives amidst the dominance of technology?". Participants were divided into teams and tasked with presenting arguments for and against the motion. The debates covered a range of subjects, including politics, ethics, technology, and current affairs. Constructive criticism was offered to help debaters improve their persuasive abilities and analytical rigor. The event served as a testament to the club's commitment to fostering critical thinking, effective communication, and respectful dialogue among its members. The faculty members were also speaking on either sides. Finally the head of the department Dr. G. Youveniya appreciated the efforts taken by the students and the convenor. The engaging session came to an end by 1.30 0m.

Elysian Fields: Readers Rendezvous (21.02.2024)

The PG Department of English conducted Readers Rendezvous, a gathering of avid readers passionate about literature and intellectual exchange, convened for its regular meeting on 21.02.2024. The club provides a platform for members to explore diverse literary genres, discuss notable works, and share their love for reading. This report outlines the activities and highlights from the session. The meeting commenced with vibrant discussions on selected literary works. Members shared their insights, interpretations, and personal reflections on the assigned books, fostering a deeper appreciation for literature and encouraging dialogue on thematic elements, character development, and narrative techniques. As part of the club's initiative to celebrate literary talent and showcase diverse voices, an "Author Spotlight" segment was introduced. Members presented brief profiles of their favourite authors, highlighting notable works, writing styles, and contributions to the literary world. This segment served to inspire fellow readers and expand their reading horizons. Participants enthusiastically shared recommendations for books they had recently read and enjoyed. This segment provided members with valuable insights into new literary discoveries, emerging authors, and must-read titles across various genres. Recommendations ranged from classic literature to contemporary fiction, non-fiction, and poetry. The club introduced themed reading challenges to encourage members to explore specific genres, authors, or literary movements. Participants were invited to set personal reading goals and share their progress with the group. Themes for future reading challenges were discussed, incorporating diverse cultural perspectives and literary traditions. The event came to close at 1.00 pm.
